John Fitzgerald Kennedy

Bring me men to match my mountains,
Bring me men to match my plains,
Men with empires in their purpose,
And new eras in their brains.

Samuel W. Foss

On November 22, 1963, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, the 35th president of the United States, was killed by bullets of hate and violence. President Kennedy proudly and vividly expressed to the nation and the world the most profound ideas of peace, human dignity, and truth. The sense of tragedy due to the assassination of our beloved president will not soon disappear; however, we can find warm consolation in the fact that the American people will give new life to the ideas, aspirations, and purposes of this man who led us.

Foreword

Just as the Stone Age was an important factor in man's mental, spiritual, and emotional development, so have these past four years at Weaver been for us, the class of 1964, an influential element in our growth as individuals. When we entered as freshmen, we were really nothing more than onlookers, separated from the true spirit of student life. As we progressed through our high school career, we became not only aware of but also an integral part of this spirit. We leave Weaver with a feeling of accomplishment and a sense of responsibility for the future. We are now prepared to conquer new horizons.

We of the Portal staff have attempted to recapture the highlights of the past four school years. We hope that this book, through the years, will keep alive the meaning and memories associated with Weaver High School.

DEDICATION

The Class of 1964 dedicates this yearbook to two of Weaver's most highly respected teachers who have contributed to the development of many students. We are grateful to them for the efforts that they have taken to make our education more rewarding.

Dr. Eleanor Michel

Weaver is extremely fortunate to have on its faculty, Dr. Eleanor Michel, one of this country's highly renowned French instructors. This extraordinary woman, who has every minute of the day planned out, has a knack for cramming a huge amount of learning into a short class period. Her methodical system of teaching, her vast knowledge, and her tremendous patience have given Weaver students a sturdy foundation in French grammar, history, and literature. Weaver French students will always appreciate the time that she has donated to help further prepare them for the difficult French achievement exams. It is with sincere gratitude that we dedicate this Portal to Dr. Michel.

F. Elliot Larrabee

Each contact with Mr. Larrabee is a rich and rewarding experience. He is a sincere and helpful friend, whether he be giving fatherly advice or loaning a popular novel from his wonderful pocket-book library. All of us who have had him for English have enjoyed his lively and interesting classes. His help on the Portal has been appreciated by many classes before us, and his kindnesses to us shall not soon be forgotten. Our class wishes the best of luck to this great and wonderful man.

MR. EZRA MELROSE

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE CLASS OF 1964:

Emerson once said, "Every revolution was once a thought in one man's mind . . . Every reform was once a private opinion." Your senior year could well be called the year of the second American Revolution . . . one against man's inhumanity to other men. In an urban school such as ours, you have been privileged to have your education take place in a truly democratic setting. Your classmates have come from every walk of life, economically, racially, and religiously. I would hope and pray that your Weaver experiences will make you the kind of adults our American society so desperately needs. I am sure that you will do your part in making our country and the world a better place for all of its peoples. As you go on your separate ways, I congratulate you and invoke God's blessing upon you, "The Lord shall guard thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth and forever."

Ezra Melrose

FOOTBALL

This year's football team, with many letter men still playing, had one of the best seasons that the school has seen in quite a while! Weaverites were promised this fine season when they watched the "green machine" for the first time in the Jamboree. Teaming up with Bulkeley, they rolled over H.P.H.S. and East Hartford. Weaver led the attack by scoring 12 points against East Hartford and a big 16 against H.P.H.S.!

In the season's opener, Weaver met Hall High at Sterling Field. The Beaver line was fabulous. With the defense doing its job, the offense rolled up a score of 40 points, giving Hall a 40-0 shutout. The next Saturday we met last year's C.D.C. winner, East Hartford, at their field. Again the line came through, and the offense showed excellent ability and handed the Hornets a 44-0 defeat.

Now the big test faced Weaver as they traveled to New Britain to take on the mighty Hurricanes. To everyone's surprise, especially New Britain's, the Beavers traded touchdown for touchdown. In the second half we got behind and were saved by a touchdown on a fourth down punt that rolled into the endzone and was quickly covered by speedy Walt Harrell. Although we had to settle for a tie, it was a feather in the Beaver's cap. Riding high from the tie with New Britain, the "green machine" walloped New London 30-0. From here they went on to plaster Pulaski with a 34-6 win.

A gloomy and cold Saturday afternoon foreshadowed the only loss of the season at the hands of classy Norwich. Weaver's only score was on a touchback by linemen Jarvis (Tiny) Holiday in the opening minutes of the game. From here to the end, it was an all Norwich game, ending in a 33-2 defeat for the disheartened Beavers.

We opened the City Series warfare with the steadily improving Bulldogs. Bulkeley and Weaver both had one touchdown as the game was coming to a close. Weaver was stopped on the one yard line with a chance to win the game, but the Bulkeley line was too formidable for the Beavers. The game ended in the 6-6 tie.

On Thanksgiving Day a capacity crowd piled into Dillon Stadium, and destiny saw fit for the Class of '64" to end a glorious season with pride. The fired-up Beavers opened the first half with a 6-0 lead. The second half was opened with a quick touchdown by Hartford, and the score was 6-6. The Beavers were not going to settle for this, and in the third quarter they scored another T.D. Hartford tried a last minute march up the field to tie the score and possibly go ahead, but that superb "line" led by the tri-captains Bologna, Thomas, and Barrows, held its own. Weaver winning the game by 12-6 also won the Dr. Abraham Klein trophy which is given to the winner of the Turkey Day clash. We ended the season with a fine 6-1-2 record.

BASKETBALL

The 1963-64 Weaver Basketball Team ended its season with a record of 12 wins and 8 losses. The Beavers started the season well with mighty Manchester, last year's champion of the C.C.I.L., and squeezed by them with a 46-45 victory. Increasing their record to 5-0 by defeating Wethersfield, New Britain, Fitch and New London, they met defeat in a nick and tuck battle against Notre Dame of West Haven, 62-60.

Weaver then met city rival Bulkeley, in the new Hartford High gymnasium, handing them a defeat of 50-48. A fine performance was given by Ben Billie. The Beavers then won over East Hartford with a one sided score of 76-40. Traveling to Norwich, the Beavers played well but couldn't find the range and lost 60-35.

On the road again, the Beavers traveled to New Haven to take on talented Wilbur Cross. This game was quite close up until the last period when the New Haveners capitalized on Beaver mistakes. The contest ended with Cross winning 75-60 but a fine performance was turned in by Len Van Tassell and Charlie Barlow.

Weaver then met Bulkeley for the second time at H.P.H.S. The Beaver team down, due to its loss to Cross, could not make a comeback as the spirited Bulldogs defeated Weaver 56-53.

Bouncing back with a victory over New Britain, Weaver met Hartford Public on January 25. The Beaver five gained an outstanding upset victory by 63-57 over favored Public in the losers' gym. Back in our own gym we defeated Fitch 81-40.

Meeting Norwich for the second time in our gym, the Beavers ended the thrilling contest in another Norwich victory. The Beavers then encountered East Hartford, winning by 23 points with the scoreboard reading 71-48. Hartford Public was next on the list, and the cold shooting Weaver Beavers lost the city basketball championship as Public defeated them 56-47 in the winners' gym February 7 before a capacity crowd. Maurice Williams was the only one who kept Weaver in contention as he scored 18 markers.

After this defeat the Beavers met mighty Hillhouse who were undefeated and refused to blemish their record. From here the Beavers bounced back with a victory over fast declining New London.

The Beavers went into the tourney with a 12-7 record and drew Wilbur Cross at Lyman Hall in the first pairing. The "green machine" rolled along at a furious pace until four of the starting five fouled out giving Cross a 71-61 victory over the Beavers. Co-captains Ben Billie and Maury Williams, Charlie Parks, Gil Cloud, Charlie Barlow and Len Van Tassell all played superbly but it wasn't enough to overcome Cross. At the end of the season, sports writers and coaches ranked Weaver as eighth in the state.

WEAVE

NITE

Through The Years

September 1960 — Fearful Freshmen

We inched our way along the strange, endless halls, jostled and jolted by those who knew where they were going. Finally, the crowd seemed to thin and there before us, was the first glimpse of the traditional first day of school blackboard. We were Freshmen.

Once settled, we looked forward to displaying our sophistication. We knew enough to refuse elevator passes! No member of the Senior hierarchy would direct us to the "fifth floor." But where were these scoundrels we had been told to be wary of? Why were there no attempts to misdirect, misinform and muddle our first days at Weaver? Could it have been due to a kindness on the part of the usually savage natives? NO! !

Our Freshman year was marked by a phenomenon; the upper-classmen were as confused as we were. Rotating schedules had gone into effect and they really has everyone "rotating." Students and teachers alike walked through the halls muttering, "three five six, four one two."

As we became accustomed to schedules, classes, teachers, and each other, a new confusion popped up. Bells! Bells! Bells! A special bell system had to be devised to warn us of the Bomb Scares. Many a week went by that Fall, when Weaver's doors opened wide and classes trooped out for a "mid-day breather." Of course, by December these scares were more nuisance than relief, and each one of us would have liked to have gotten a hold on the "mad bomber of Weaver High."

The year progressed. We joined clubs and elected a Freshman president. Yet, a foreshadowing of the jinx that was to label our class appeared. Our Freshman year went by without a Weaver Nite.

Then it was June. We looked back on our first year at Weaver with relief that it was over, and ahead to summer vacation with great ambition to do nothing. So what if it was only a two month rest? In June, September seems far, far away.

September 1961 — Silly Sophomores

Secure in our familiarity with the school, routine, and kids, we assumed our role of upper-classmen. We sneered at the notebook-carrying Freshmen as we veterans jotted down first-day assignments on bits of scrap paper. Jeering comments passed among us as we viewed the "youngsters" from our lofty heights; "We weren't that small last year," or "They all look like eighth graders."

We strutted through the halls all tied up in the latest news—"Sweet Sixteens," drivers licenses, part-time jobs. (All those part-time jobs seemed to be devoted to buying presents and gas.) Severe snowstorms gave us unexpected vacations and extra sleep. A spirited "Save the Silverware" campaign was highlighted by an unforgettable spoon and fork assembly. Cherry bombs exploded in the stairwells, and fights erupted in the lunch room.

The days of overcrowded coat rooms came to an end, and the halls were congested with students juggling books as they tried to open their new lockers.

SCAT and STEP tests kept us busy during mid-year exams. (Oh, how we cried about that!) The PA system was installed, and each morning we were greeted by a cheery "thought for the day." Again, that ugly jinx showed up and in our Sophomore year, we all mourned the death of the Goodwill Formal.

Spring finally came (we had rather doubted its existence), and with it came a change in Weaver scenery. Our beautiful hedges were cut down until only the stumps remained (and we're still tripping over them today).

Another June meant another year had gone by. Beaches, here we come. Ahhhh.

September 1962 — Jolly Juniors

We were upperclassmen now and nothing could keep us down. Perhaps that accounts for the milk all over the annex wall, hmm? Speaking of annex wall, carpenters tied up traffic and aroused our curiosity for sometime until we finally learned about the Freedom Shrine.

Straws and napkins were precious commodities that year, only one to a head. Of course, if you had two heads . . .

One of the most memorable events in our Junior year was the "attack of the preps." Uniformed in madras and Weejuns, and shouting their battle cry of "TEBBS," the preps tried to suffocate us all in Canoe. It was a "tuff" time. Most of us came through unharmed, but some were conquered by the long hairs and will wear their pierced-eared scars for life.

Many of us were hopeful. We had evaded it all year. Then, in May, it struck. The dreaded jinx once more appeared, and we went down in Weaver history as the first class without a Junior Prom.

September 1963 — Successful Seniors

We made our final first day entrance with the security that comes not only from belonging, but also from leading. And we were determined to lead. Ironically enough, the rotating schedules which had confused our Freshman year were abolished in our Senior year. Once more we were masters of our schedules. For the first time in four years (the first time since we had been in Weaver also), we won the Thanksgiving Day game. We seemed to be rolling along smoothly. A general crackdown on rules of discipline may have put a damper on the "hall roamers," and "Boys' Dress Up Day" might have inhibited a few, but school spirit in general was soaring. Our boy cheerleaders added a "different" touch to the games and rallies. And triumph of triumphs—Weaver Night was held for two performances! (Looks like we made up for our Freshman year!)

Through it all we worried about job and college acceptances; take class pictures and write them out, worry about job and college acceptances; elect Class Night officers, worry about job and college acceptances; store up as many memories as we possibly can, and worry about job and college acceptances.

With the coming of Spring, our tensions eased. Many of us had our fall plans settled. Infectious Senioritis accompanied by acute Spring Fever made studying almost impossible. Then Graduation Night came.

Much to our embarrassment, most of us were sorry to leave Weaver. Some of us even cried. We had, by this time, become truly "successful Seniors." We felt satisfaction in achieving a goal. We were old enough to realize that "things would be different now." More important we were at last mature enough to appreciate what Weaver had given us: academic education, broad social background, and the best four years of our lives.

11 o'clock droop.

Planning mischief, Leroy?

Can the mistake be that bad?

Who will ever wear it?

Terrie, is it really that amusing?

"The Happy Few"

Is that a comic book, Otis?

What is Miss Sawyer doing?

Hurry up! What's the answer?

Taking the easy way out.

Investigate those books.

Behind you, Joel!

Giving Cy the eye.

All right, you girls in the back!

Don't worry, Ingrid. We see you.

Twenty jobs to go!

"Shall I wait till you're finished talking?"

"Peanuts . . . popcorn . . . candy . . ."
